Chapter IV: Vayeira (Gen. 18:1-22:24)

Essay 18. Sending away Ishmael

"She said to Abraham, 'Cast out that slave-woman and her son, for the son of that slave-woman shall not inherit with my son Isaac.' The matter distressed Abraham greatly, for it concerned a son of his. But G-d said to Abraham, 'Do not be distressed over the boy or your slave-woman; whatever Sarah tells you, do as she says, for it is through Isaac that your offspring shall be named.' "– Gen. 21:10–12

בָּכוּק "גָּרַשׁ הָאָמָה הַזּאֹת" וְכוּ' "כִּי לֹא יִירַשׁ" וְכוּ'. יֵשׁ לְדַקְדֵּק עַל הַשַּעַם שְׁנּוֹתֵן "כִּי לֹא יִירַשׁ" וְכוּ', וְכִי שָּׂרָה הָּיְתָה כֹּל

Regarding the verse, "Cast out that maidservant and her son, for the son of that maidservant shall not inherit," etc. We need to check the reason that is given, "for the son of that maidservant shall not inherit" etc., for was Sarah so greedy for the money? Also, the commentators question that even if he would send him away not, how would it benefit him, for when Abraham would die, wouldn't he return to claim his inheritance? Also, what is this, "The matter distressed Abraham greatly," and what is this "for it is through Isaac that your offspring shall be named"?

This can be understood from the dispute between Geonim no the matter of one who impregnates his slave: if the child born from her is a slave or a free man. The Rif, in chapter 4 of Yevamot, is uncertain, and so is inclined to be strict in all matters of prohibitions, and for monetary matters, he holds that [the child] does not inherit, because one who wants to take away from his friend must bring proof. As there is halachic uncertainty if the child is considered a legal son, he cannot claim a portion of the estate.

The Rambam ruled in the 10th chapter of the Laws of Divorce (halacha 19), and in the 9th chapter of the Laws of Slaves (halacha 1) that the child is a slave. However, in the 4th chapter of the Laws of Inheritances (halacha 6), he wrote that if the father is a Torah scholar, or a respectable figure, and he treats [the child] like a son, then the child from his slavewoman inherits from him.

The Rav Ha-Maggid<sup>1</sup> expounds at length there and brings the opinion of the Rif, and writes that the reason of the Rambam in this case of inheritance is because the Torah gave permission for the father to provide an inheritance, etc., and see there.

וּמַעַתָּה נָבוֹא לְבֵיאוּר הַפְּסוּקִים, שֶׁכַּוָוֹת שָׂרָה הָיְתָה שֶׁיִשְׁמָעֵאל וּבָנִיו לֹא יִזְכּוּ בִּירוּשַׁת הָאָרֶץ, שֻׁכְּבָר הִבְּטִיחַ הקב"ה לְאַבְרָהָם "לְזַרְעֲךְ נָתַתִּי" וְכוּ'. וּמִשׁוּם הָכִי אָמְרָה לוֹ "גָרֵשׁ הָאָמָה הַזּאֹת וְאֶת־בְּנָהּ", כְּדַעַת הָרִי"ף, וְאַף דְּאָזְלִינֵן לְחוּמְרָא בְּכָל מִידִי קְּזִיכְעָּךְ בָּי אָמָר הַזּאֹת" דְּלָעַנְיָן מָמוֹנָא לָא יָרֵית לֵיהּ. וּכְשֶׁתִּהְיָה עֵדוּת זוֹ בָּעוֹלָם שָׁאַבְרָהָם גַּרְשׁוֹ מִבֵּיתוֹ, דְּאִיסוּרְא, יִירִשׁ בֶּן־הָאָמָה הַזּאֹת" דְּלָעַנְיָן מָמוֹנָא לָא יָרֵית לֵיהּ. וּכְשֶׁתִּהְיָה עֵדוּת זוֹ בָּעוֹלָם שָׁאַבְרָהָם עַל אוֹדֹת בְּנוֹ", אִי בְשׁ בָּרָהָם עֹל אוֹדֹת בְּנוֹ", שָׁאָם הָיָה מְגָרֵשׁ אוֹתוֹ לֹא הָיָה נָחְשָׁב עוֹד בְּנוֹ.

Now we'll come to an understanding of the verses, that the intent of Sarah was that Ishmael and his sons would not merit in the inheritance of the Land, that the Holy One, Blessed be He, had already promised to Abraham, "To your offspring I will give this Land." Because of this, she said to him, "Cast out that slave-woman and her son," according to the opinion of the Rif, who is inclined to be strict in all matters of prohibitions, and in the matter of money he holds that one who wants to take away from his friend must bring proof. When this evidence would be known in the world, that Abraham sent him away from his house, it would be impossible for Ishmael to come after Abraham died to claim a portion of his inheritance. However, "The matter distressed Abraham greatly, for it concerned a son of his," for if he would send him away, he would no longer be considered his son.

ְוָהקב"ה כְּדֵי לְהָנִים מָקוֹם לַמַּחֲלוֹקֶת הַכּּוֹסְקִים זַ"ל שֶׁאֵלּוּ וְאֵלּוּ דִּבְרֵי אֱלֹהִים חַיִּים, לֹא אָמַר "עַל־בִּנְדְּ וְעַל־אֲמֶתֶךּ" אוֹ "עַל־אֲמֶתֶדּ וְעַל־אֲמֶתֶדּ וְעַל־אֲמֶתֶדּ", אֶלָּא אָמַר סְתָם "עַל־הַנַּעַר וְעַל־אֲמֶתֶדּ". וְאַף שֶׁלְכִּי סְבָרת הָרִמְבַּ"ם הָיָה יָכוֹל לִירַשׁ עִם יִצְחָק, עָם כֹּל זָה שָׁרָה רָאָתָה בְּרוּם הַלְּדֶשׁ שֶׁאֲנִי רוֹצֶה שֶׁבְּיִצְחָק דַּוְקָא "יִקְּרֵא לְדְּ זָרַע" לָעְנָיָן יְרוּשַׁת הָאָרֶץ וְלֹא בְּיִשְׁמֶעֵאל, וְהִיא כְּמוֹ הוֹרָאַת שָׁצְבִי רוּם הַלְּדָשׁ.

The Holy One, Blessed be He, wanted to leave room for the above dispute of the halachic authorities, of blessed memory, that these words of the ruling of the Rif and these words of the ruling of the Rambam are both words of the Living G-d.<sup>3</sup> Thus, He did not say, "do not be distressed over your son or your slave-woman," or "over your slave woman or her son," rather said simply, "over the boy or your slave-woman." G-d is essentially telling Abraham, "Even though according to the opinion of the Rambam, it would be possible for [Ishmael] to inherit with Isaac, nevertheless, Sarah saw by Divine inspiration that I want that 'through Isaac' specifically 'that your offspring shall be named,' with regard to the inheritance of the Land and not Ishmael." This was like a temporary edict issued in extraordinary circumstances, even though the edict may not be representative of the general halacha. Therefore, [the edict] came by Divine inspiration.

וְזֶהוּ שֶׁאָמְרוּ זַ"ל "כֹּל אֲשֶׁר תּאמֵר אֵלֶיךּ שָׂרָה שְׁמַע בְּלֹלָהּ" לְרוּחַ הַלֹּדֶשׁ שֶׁבָּה, דְּהַיְינוּ "כִּי בְיִצְחָק יִקְּרַא לְדּ זָרַע" וְלֹא בְּבָנִים אַחַרִים אֵשֶׁר הַיוּ לְדָּ. וְעַיֵּין לְעֵיל בָּסָדֵר הַקַּדוּם עַל פַּסוּק "וַתְּעַנָּהַ שַׂרִי וַתִּבְרח" וְכוּי.

This is what [the rabbis] of blessed memory in tractate Megillah said regarding G-d's command to Abraham, "whatever Sarah tells you, do as she says," because of the Divine inspiration in her,<sup>5</sup> which is that "it is through Isaac that your offspring shall be named," and not through other children that you have. I.e., the Gemara does not interpret "do whatever Sarah tells you" as a blanket command to Abraham to always listen to his wife, but to certainly listen to her in this instance, where she was speaking through Divine inspiration, even though she was giving a temporary edict that did not necessarily represent normative halacha.

See above in the preceding parasha, Lech Lecha, Essay 22, on the verse, "Then Sarai treated her harshly, and she ran away from her."
