Chapter V: Chayei Sarah (Gen. 23:1-25:18)

Essay 7: The merit of charity.

ןְעוד בַּמִדְרָשׁ עַל פָּסוּק זֶה, כְּתִיב עֲטֶרֶת תִּפְאֶרֶת שֵׁיבָה, בְּדֶרֶך צְדָקֶה תִּמָּצָא. ר' מֵאִיר אֲזַל לְמַמְלָא, רָאָה אוֹתָם שְׁחוֹרֵי הָרֹאשׁ, אָמַר שֶׁמָא מִמִּשְׁפַּחַת בִּית עַלי אַתָּם? דּכְתִיב וְכָל מְרְבִּית בִיּתְדּ וְכוּ'. אָמְרוּ לוֹ, רַבִּי הְתְפַלֵּל עָלֵינוּ. אָמַר לָהָם, לְכוּ וְהָטֶפְּלוּ בִצְדָקָה, וְאַתֶּם זוֹכִים לְזְקְנָה. מַאי טַעְמָא? עֲטֶרֶת תִּפְאֶרֶת שֵׁיכָה וְכוּ'. מִמִי אַתָּה לָמֵד? מֵאַבְרָהָם, שֶׁכּּתוּב בּוֹ וְכוּ עכ"ל.

On the same verse "Abraham was old" (Gen. 24:1), the Midrash says:

It is written: "Gray hair is a crown of glory; it is found by the way of righteousness." (Prov. 16:31). Rabbi Meir went to Mamla, a Jewish town in the Galilee where residents did not have long lives, and saw her residents were darkhaired. He said, "Perhaps you are from the family of the high priest, Eli? As it is written, 'all the increase in your house shall die as [young] men.' (I Sam. 2:33)."¹ They said to him, "Rabbi, pray for us!" He said to them, "Go and take care with giving charity and you will merit old age." What is the reason? "Gray hair is a crown of glory." How is it found? "It is found by the way of righteousness."² From whom do you learn this? From Abraham, as it is written regarding him, "to keep the way of the L-rd by doing righteousness and justice" (Gen. 18:19), meriting old age, as it is said, "Abraham was old, advanced in years."

- (Gen. Rabbah 59:1)

וְקַשֶׁה, דִּילְמָא הַצְּדָקָה אֵינָה מוֹעֶלֶת אֶלָּא הֵיכָא דְּלֵיכָּא חֵטָא וְלֵיכָּא גְזַר דִיזָ, כְּמוֹ בָּאַבְרָהָם, מַה שֶׁאֵין כֵּן בְּנֵי עֵלִי, שֶׁכְּבָר נִתַּחְתֶּם גְּזַר דִּינָם. וְעוֹד אִם לְמֵד זֶה מֵהַפָּסוּק עֲטֶרֶת תִּפְאֶרֶת שֵׁיבָה וְכוּ', לָמָה לֹא אָמַר לָהֶם, וְאַתֶּם זוֹכִים לַשֵּׁיבָה? וְאָם כְּבָר הַבִיא הַפָּסוּק עֲטֶרֶת תִּפְאֶרֶת וְכוּ', מַה צּוֹרֶךּ הָיָה לוֹ לוֹמַר מִמִי אַתָּה לְמֵד, מֵאַבְרָהָם?

There's a difficulty: perhaps the giving of charity doesn't elevate the giver, but rather where is no sin, there is no decree of judgment, as with Abraham—something not true with the sons of Eli, whose decree of judgment was already inscribed. Also, if we learn the value of giving charity from the verse "gray hair is a crown of glory, etc.," why not say to them, "you will merit gray hair," instead of telling them they would merit old age? Also, as he had already brought the verse "gray hair is a crown of glory etc.," as a proof, why did he need to say, "From whom do you learn this? From Abraham"?

² I.e., giving charity. Hebrew uses the same word, tzedakah (צדקה) for both "charity" and "righteousness."

ַוְיֵשׁ לוֹמַר שֶׁעַל הַפָּסוּק עֲטֶרֶת תִּפְאֶרֶת, הִרְגִּישׁ קוּשְׁיָא, מַהוּ בְּדֶרֶךְ צְדָקָה, וְלֹא אָמַר בִּצְדָקָה תִּמָּצֵא? וּמַהוּ זֶה הַדֶּרֶדְ? וְאִיתָא שִׁם בַּסָּמוּדְ וְאַרְרָהָם זָקֵן, ר' יִצְחָק פָּתַח וְגַם עַד־זִקְנָה וְשִׁיבָה וְכוּ'. אָמַר ר' אַחָא, אֶלָּא שָׁאִם נָתַתָּ לי זקנָה, תֵּן לי שֵׁיבָה עַמָּה. מִמִי אַתָּה לְמֵד? מֵאבְרָהָם, עַל יְדֵי שֶׁכָּתוּב בּוֹ וְשָׁמְרוּ דֶּרֶד ה', זָכָה לְזִקְנָה, דְּרָתִיב וְאַבְרָהָם זָקֵן וְכוּ' עַכ"ל.

Regarding the verse "gray hair is a crown of glory," there is a sense of difficulty: why does the verse conclude "it is found by the way of righteousness"? Why not simply say "it is found by righteousness"? What is this "way"? In an adjoining section to the Midrash's commentary on the verse, "Abraham was old," it is brought: "Rabbi Yitzchak opened a discussion by quoting: 'even in old age and gray hair, do not forsake me, G-d' (Ps. 71:18). Rabbi Acha said, we should interpret this as, 'if You will give me old age, give me gray hair with it.' From whom do you learn this? From Abraham, because it is written concerning him, 'to keep the way of the L-rd by doing righteousness and justice' (Gen. 18:19), and he merited old age, as it is written, 'Abraham was old.'" (Gen. Rabbah 59:3).

ַוְיֵשׁ לְדַקְדֵּק דְאָם כֵּן, כֹּל מִי שֶׁמַגִּיעַ לְזְקָנָה מִן הָרָאוּי שֶׁיַגִּיעַ אָף לַשִּׁיבָה. וַהְרֵי אָנוּ רוֹאִים אִיפְּכָא שֶׁכַּמָה זְקַנִים מֵתִים קוֹדָם שִׁיַגִּיעוּ לִשִׁיבָה. וּבַעַל כָּרְחַדְ צָרידְ לוֹמֵר שֶׁהָעִנְיָן הוּא כָּדְ, שְׁמִי שֶׁמַּגִיעַ לְזְקָנָה מַחַמַת הַמַזָּל אֵינוֹ מוּכְרָח שֶׁיַגִּיעַ אָף לַשִּׁיבָה, אָבָל מִי שֶׁמַּגִיע לְזְקָנָה מַחַמַת אֵיזֶה זְכוּת וּבִפְרָט בִזְכוּת הַצְדָקָה, זוֹכָה אַף לֹשֵׁיבָה. וְהַטַעם שֶׁבְּמִצְוֹ הַצְדָקָה זוֹכָה לְזְקָנָה, יֵשׁ לוֹמַר מִשׁוּם דְקַיִימָא לָן כָּן שִׁשִׁים לַזְקָנָה.

We should scrutinize this, for if this is so, that Rabbi Acha's interpretation is correct, then everyone who attains old age would necessarily also attain gray hair. But we see to the contrary that a number of old people die before attaining gray hair. For that matter, it could be said that the situation is like this: that one who attains old age because of luck does not necessarily attain gray hair, but one who attains old age because of some merit—and especially because of the merit of righteousness—does also merit gray hair. But that interpretation is not right; rather, the intent is that in the mitzvah of charity, one merits old age but not necessarily gray hair. That is why Rabbi Meir told the people of Mamla that by giving charity they could merit old age, but he didn't say that would allow them to attain gray hair. It's worth noting this distinction, because in fact it has been established for us: "a sixty-year-old achieves old age; a seventy-year-old achieves gray hair" (Pirkei Avot 5:21). That is, gray hair is a sign of distinction, indicating not only a long life, but a very long life. וּבַפֶּרֶק ג' דְּמוֹעֵד קַטָן, אַמְרֵינָן מַחֲמָשִׁים עַד שָׁשִׁים זו מִיתַּת כָּרַת. וּמִי שָׁעוֹשֶׁה הַצְדָקָה אִי אָפְשָׁר לוֹ לָמוּת קוֹדָם שָׁשִׁים, שֶׁהְרֵי כְּתִיב, וּצְדָקָה תַּצִיל מִמֶּנֶת. וְאָם הָיָה מֵת קוֹדַם, הָיִיתִי אוֹמֵר שֶׁהַצְדָקָה לא הוֹעִילָה כְּלוּם. וְאַף כְּשֶׁמַּגִיעַ לִשָּׁשִׁים, אֵינוֹ מוּכָח שֶׁזָּהוּ בִזְכוּת הַצְדָקָה, שֶׁהְרֵי מֵת מִשׁׁשִׁים שָׁנָה זוֹ מִיתַּת כָּל אָדָם, כְּדָאִיתָא הַתָם. וְלָכֵן צָריךּ שֶׁיּתְאָרְכוּ יָמִיו עַד שְׁבְעִים שָׁנָה, שָׁהוּ הַזְכוּת הַצְדָקָה, שֶׁהָרֵי מֵת מִשׁׁשִׁים שָׁנָה זוֹ מִיתַּת כָּל אָדָם, כָּדְאִיתָא הַתָם. וְלָכֵן צָריךּ שֶׁיּתְאָרְכוּ יָמִיו עַד שְׁבָעִים שִׁנָה, שָׁהוּא הוּמַן שֶׁר הַשֵּׁיבָה.

The third chapter of Moed Katan (28a) discusses the significance of death at different ages. In an anonymous opinion, it says that if one dies at age fifty, this is death through karet, the divine punishment of excision, meted out for the most serious transgressions. Another anonymous opinion says that if one dies at the age of sixty, this is death at the hand of Heaven. The Gemara then says that one who dies at the age of seventy has attained gray hair. The Gemara quotes, "Rabba said: death from fifty to sixty years of age is death by karet." Giving charity can save one from karet, and therefore one who acts with righteousness (i.e., gives charity) cannot die before sixty years of age, as it is written, "Wealth is of no avail on the day of wrath; but charity saves from death." (Prov. 11:4). In other words, as we said in the previous paragraph, giving charity should help a person reach old age (sixty), but not necessarily achieve the age of gray hair (seventy). If he dies before sixty, I could say that giving charity did not avail him at all (i.e., maybe it did not effect repentance from karet). Even if one reaches age sixty, it is not proof that this was in the merit of charity, because dying after age sixty is the ordinary "death of every person," as it is written there (Moed Katan 28a).³ Therefore, in order to see the merit due a charitable person, it is necessary that his days will be lengthened to seventy years, which is the time of gray hair.

אֲכָל בְּנִי עֵלִי—שֶׁבָּתוּב בָּהֶם וְכָל־מַרְבִּית בֵּיתָדְ יָמוּתוּ אֲנָשִׁים, דְּהַיְינוּ סָמוּדְּ לְעֶשְׂרִים שֶׁנָה—אָם בִּזְכוּת הַצְדָּקָה יִחְיוּ עַד שִׁשִׁים, שֶׁהוּא גֶדָר הַזְקְנָה, שֵׁפִּיר מוּכָח בָּהֶם זְכוּת הַצְדָקָה. וְאָם בֵּן, ר' מֵאִיר שֵׁפִּיר אָמר לָהֶם וְאַתֶּם זוֹכִים לְזְקָנָה, שֶׁבּזְכוּת הַצְדָקָה אָדָם זוֹכָה לְזְקְנָה, וּכְשֶׁוּוֹכֶה לְזְקְנָה, זוֹכֶה נָמֵי לַשִׁיכָה. מִמִי אַתָּה לָמַד? מֵאַרָרָהָם, שֶׁבּזְכוּת הַצְדָקָה וְנִיתַן לוֹ שֵׁיִבָה אָדָם זוֹכָה לְזְקְנָה, וּכְשֶׁוּוֹכֶה לְזְקְנָה, זוֹכֶה נָמֵי לַשִׁיכָה. מִמִי אַתָּה לָמַד? מַאַרְרָהָם, שֶׁבּזְכוּת הַצְדָּקָה וַנִּיתַן לוֹ שֵׁיִבָה עַמָּה.

But regarding the sons of Eli—about whom it is written, "All the increase in your house shall die as [young] men" (I Sam. 2:33), which is close to twenty years old—if in the merit of giving charity they would live to be sixty,⁴ which is the edge of old age, that would be a nice proof as to the merit of charity. But if so, it would have been nice for Rabbi Meir to say to Eli's offspring in Mamla, "You will merit old age, because in the merit of giving charity, man merits old age, and when he merits old age, he also merits gray hair. From whom do you learn this? From Abraham, who in the merit of charity merited to old age and was also given gray hair with it."

⁴ Rosh Hashanah 18a includes a debate whether an oath by G-d can be overcome. It quotes, "And therefore I have sworn to the house of Eli, that the iniquity of Eli's house will not be purged with sacrifice nor offering forever" (I Sam. 3:14). It then notes that Torah study or acts of kindness can overcome such a decree, and that Rabba and Abaye were both descended from Eli. Rabba, who engaged almost exclusively in Torah study, lived to be forty years old, and Abaye, who engaged in both Torah study and acts of kindness, lived to be sixty years old.

וְזֶהוּ שֶׁאָמַר הַכָּתוּב בְּדֶרֶהְ צְדָקָה, כְּלוֹמַר הַשִּׁיבָה בָּאָה עִם הַזְקָנָה, שֶׁהוּא דֶרֶהְ וּזְכוּת הַצְדָקָה. וּמַה שֶׁאָמַר וְהָטָפְּלוּ בִּצְדָקָה וְלָא אָמַר עָשׁוּ, מִשׁוּם דְקַיִימָא לָן דְעִיקָר מִצְוַת הַצְדָקָה הוּא נוֹתְנָה וְאֵינוֹ יוֹדַעַ לְמִי נוֹתְנָה, כְּמוֹ הַמַּטִיל לְקוּפָּה. וְלָכֵן אָמַר וְהָטָפְּלוּ בִצְדָקָה, הִשְׁתַּמִיּ יַחַד, דְּבְהָכִי תִּהְיֶה הַצְדָקָה בֵּין כֵּלְכֶם וְתִהְיֶה יוֹתֵר הוֹגַנת. וּבְוּדַאי תּוֹעִיל לָכֶם לְפָחוֹת עַד הַזְקָנָה, דְּתָסָפָּלוּ בִצְדָקָה, הִשְׁתַּמִיּ יַחַד, דְּבְהָכִי תִּהְיֶה הַצְדָקָה בֵּין כֵּלְכֶם וְתִהְיֶה יוֹתֵר הוֹגַנת. וּבְוּדַאי תּוֹעִיל לָכֶם לְפָחוֹת עַד הַזְקָנָה, דְּתַסִּסָתָ מוּעָט תַּפַסְתָּ.

This is why Scripture says, "in the way of righteousness," as if to say that gray hair comes with old age, which is a "way" and the merit of the charity. [Rabbi Meir] says "take care with giving charity," and not "doing [righteousness]," because the principal mitzvah of charity is giving it without knowing to whom one gives it (Bava Batra 10b; Shulchan Aruch, Yoreh De'ah 249:7), as with one who gives to a fund. Therefore, [Rabbi Meir] says, "Take care with giving charity," as if to say, "Participate together, so that the charity will be from all of you and will be more equitable. Certainly, it will help you to at least reach old age, as it is said, 'if you grasped a little, you still grasped something' (Yoma 80a)." I.e., even if one won't reach the venerated age of 70, with its accompanying gray hair, it is still better to reach the old age of 60 than to die at a younger age.
