Chapter VI: Toldot (Gen. 25:19-28:9)

Essay 11. Miracles for an individual or for many people

מִדְרָשׁ עַל פָּסוּק "מַה־זֶּה מִהַרְתָּ למְצֹּא בְּנִי", אִם לְזוּוּגְה הַמְצִיא לְדָ, דְכָתִיב : "הַקָּרַה־נָא לְפָנֵי הַיּוֹם", לְמַאֲכָלְד^{ּוּ} עַל אַחַת כַּמָה וְכַמָּה. הַקְשָׁה הָעִיּוּן יַעֲלִב בְּפֶרֶק י' דִפְסָחִים דְּכָּאן מַשְׁמָע שֶׁהַמַאֲכָל יוֹתַר קַל מִן הַזִיוּוּג וְהַתָּם אָמְרינֵן קָשִׁים מְזוֹנוֹתִיו שֶׁל אָדָם כִּקְרִיעַת יָם סוּף, וְכְהַגִּרְסָה אָמְרינֵן בְּסוֹטָה וְקָשִׁים לְזוּוּגָם כָּקְרִיעַת יַם סוּף, אָם כֵּן שָׁוִים הֵם, וְתַּיבץ הוּא לְפִי דַרְכוֹ שֶׁל אָדָם כִּקְרִיעַת יָם סוּף, וְכְהַגִּרְסָה אָמְרִינֵן בְּסוֹטָה וְקָשִׁים לְזוּוּגָם כְּקָרִיעַת יַם סוּף, אָם כֵּן שָׁוִים הֵם, וְתַּירֵץ הוּא

There is a Midrash (Gen. Rabbah 95:19) on the verse, "How did you succeed so quickly, my son?"² Esau had told his father, Isaac, that he was going hunting. Jacob disguised himself as his older brother, Esau, and approached their father, who asked him that question. The Midrash says that Jacob responded: " 'If for your marriage match, [G-d] created it for you'— as it is written, when Abraham sent his servant Eliezer to find a wife for you, and Eliezer prayed, 'Grant me good fortune today'³—then for your food it should be the same."

I.e., Eliezer had said, "Here I stand by the spring as the daughters of the townspeople come out to draw water. Let the maiden to whom I say, 'Please, lower your jar that I may drink,' and who replies, 'Drink, and I will also water your camels'—let her be the one whom You have decreed for Your servant Isaac." Thus, he called for a miracle, and G-d allowed it to happen that way.⁴

Therefore, Jacob, disguised as Esau, say saying, "If G-d performed a miracle so that Eliezer was able to easily find a wife for you, then why shouldn't He also perform a miracle allowing me to quickly bring food to you?"

The Iyun Ya'akov⁵ on the 10th chapter of tractate Pesachim (118a) asks: Here in Gen. Rabbah, the meaning is that food is easier to obtain than a marriage match, but there in Pesachim, it is said, "[Obtaining] a person's food is as difficult as the splitting of the Red Sea," and according to another version they say in Sotah that making a marriage match is as difficult as the splitting of the Red Sea.⁶ If so, they are equal in difficulty. The solution is according to [the Iyun Ya'akov's] way, and see there, where he says that if the food is already created, and it is only necessary to hurry to bring it to Isaac so that he wouldn't suffer discomfort [from hunger], then it is accomplished more quickly than making a marriage match.

עוֹד מַקְשִׁים הָעוֹלָם מָה רָאָה אֱליעֶזָר לסְמוּך עַצְמוּ עַל הַנֵּס "וְהָיָה הַנַּעֲרָ" וְכוּ', וּמַה שֶׁתִּירְצוּ זַ"ל שֶׁהוֹאִיל שֶׁכְּבָר נַעֲשָׁה לוֹ הַנֵּס שֶׁל קְפִיצַת הָאָרֶץ סַמַך עַצְמוּ גַּם עַל נֵס אַחַר. קַשֶׁה דְהָא בְּמָקְדָּשׁ מָקוֹם דְשְׁכִיחָא בֵּיה נָסִים הוּא, כְּדְתְנַן עֲשָׁרָה נִסְים נַעֲשׁוּ לַאֲבוֹתֵינוּ בְּבֵית הַמְקָדָּשׁ. וַאָפִלּוּ הָכִי בְּפֶרֶק ה' דִּפְסָחִים פְּלִיגִי אַבָּיֵי וְרָבָא, וְקוִימָא לֵן כְּרָבָא דְנוֹעֲלין תְנַן, וְלָא סָמְכִינַן אַנִּיסָא, וְכֵן פָסָק הָרַמְבַ"ם בְּהַלְכוֹת קַרְבָּן כָּסח.

Also, everyone asks what Eliezer saw to decide to rely upon a miracle, as he said, "Let the maiden to whom I say, 'Please, lower your jar that I may drink,' and who replies, 'Drink, and I will also water your camels'—let her be the one whom You have decreed for Your servant Isaac." Also, why did [the rabbis] of blessed memory conclude that since [Eliezer] had already experienced the miracle of the Land contracting before him so that he could reach his destination quickly,⁷ he relied also upon another miracle. A question on this is that in the Temple it was common for miracles to occur, as it is taught in a Mishnah, "Ten wonders were wrought for our ancestors in the Temple."⁸ So why shouldn't Eliezer have expected a miracle?

Even so, in the fifth chapter of tractate Pesachim (64b), Abaye and Rava disagreed on a matter, and we hold in accordance with Rava, for while Abaye said that the doors of the Temple closed by themselves, and we relied upon the miracle, Rava said that we learned that [people would] close [the doors], and we do not rely on a miracle. The Rambam similarly ruled this way, in the Mishneh Torah, Laws of the Passover Sacrifice.⁹ So we see that it is unusual to expect a miracle.

ַוְיֵשׁ לוֹמִר שֶׁכְּשֶׁהַדָּבָר הוּא צוֹרֵך רָבִים מוּתָּר לְסְמוֹך עַל הַגֵּס, כִּדְאַשְׁכְּחַן בְּנַחוּם אִישׁ גַּם זוֹ בְּפֶרֶק ג' דְתַעֲנִית שֶׁסָּמַך עַצְמוֹ עַל הַגֵּס אַף עַל פִּי שֶׁהְרָגִּישׁ בְּעַצְמוֹ שֶׁבְנֵי הַמָּלוֹן גָּגְבוּ מִמָּנוּ הַמַרְגָּליוֹת וּמַלְאוּ לסִפְטָא עַפְרָא וַאָפּלוּ הָכִי קַם וְאָזַל לְבֵּי קֵיסָר הוֹאִיל שֶׁהָיָה הַדְּבָר לְצוֹרֶך רַבִּים, כְּמוֹ שֶׁכָּתַב הָעִיוּן יַעֲקֹב בְּפֶרֶק ט' דְבְרָכוֹת עַל הַהִיא דְאַנִּיסָא דְרַבִּים מְבָרְכינֵן, דְּבְנֵס דְרַבְים לְיפָא כַּל פָּד גָס, דְזַכוּתָא דְרַבִּים עַדִיף, אַבַל גַס דְיַחִיד דְלָא נְפִישׁ זְכוּתִיה זָה הוּא

It can be said that when the matter is the necessity of many people, it is permissible to rely upon a miracle. We found this with Nachum of Gam Zu, in the third chapter of tractate Ta'anit (21a), when the Jewish community asked him to deliver a gift to the Roman emperor. He relied upon a miracle: Even though he discovered that the hotel staff had stolen the jewels and pearls from him and filled the chest with earth, he rose and went to the palace of the emperor to deliver the chest, since the matter was for the need of the community. When the emperor saw the chest filled with earth, he became angry, believing that the Jews were mocking him. Nachum suggested that the earth was a weapon that Abraham had used, and that if it were thrown at enemies, it would turn into swords and kill them. The emperor tried to use the dirt in this way against a province that he could not conquer, and found that it was indeed as Nachum had suggested. The emperor then had Nachum's chest filled with jewels and pearls, and allowed him to leave in peace.

⁷ Sanhedrin 95a: "The Sages taught [in a Baraita]: For three [people], the land contracted [and each one miraculously reached his destination quickly]: Eliezer, servant of Abraham, and Jacob our forefather, and Abishai, son of Zeruiah. . . . [For] Eliezer, servant of Abraham, as it is written: 'And I came that day to the well' (Gen. 24:42). [I.e., in telling his story to Rebecca's family, he intended] to say that on that day he left [Canaan, he arrived to them, stressing that a miracle had occurred for his work on behalf of Abraham]."

⁸ Pirkei Avot 5:5.

This is as the Iyun Ya'akov wrote on the ninth chapter of tractate Berachot (54a), which teaches that for a miracle that occurred for many people, we recite a blessing. He says that a miracle for many people is not such a miracle, i.e., is not so unexpected for the merit of many people is preferred. But a miracle that occurs for one person, who doesn't have such a great merit compared to the merit of many people in need, this is indeed a great miracle.

וְאַף בְּעֲזָרָה הָיָה נְקָרָא גַס דְּיָחִיד שֶׁמָּא יִתְמָעַךּ אֶחָד מֵהֶם כְּמוֹ שָׁאֵירַע שֶׁקָרָאוּהוּ פֶּסח מְעוּכִין. אֲבָל הַהִיא דְאֵליעָזָר הָיָה נְקְרָא גַס דְרַבִּים דְאָמְרינֵן בְּפֶרֶק ד' דְּרֹאשׁ הַשֶּׁנָה (דַּף ל"ב) דְּלְר' יוֹסִי דְּסְבִירָא לֵיה פַּקְדוֹנוֹת — הְרֵי הֵן כְּזָרְרוֹנוֹת "וַה' פַּקַד אֶת־שָׁרָה" אַף עַל גַּב דְּפַּקֵדוֹן דְיָחִיד הוּא כֵּיוָן דְאָתוּ רַבִּים מִינַה כְּרַבִים דָּמְיָא, וְשׁפִּיר סָמַדְ עַל הַגַּס מְשׁוּם שֶׁהָיָה כְּמוֹ נַס דְרַבִּים דָּמְיָא, וְשׁפִּיר סָמַדְ עַל הַגַס מְשׁוּם שֶׁהָיָה הוּא כֵּיוָן דָאָתוּ רַבִּים מִינָה כְּרַב

Even regarding the Temple courtyard, where "the people stood pressed together, yet bowed down and had enough room,"¹⁰ it was considered a miracle for an individual, lest one of them be crushed, as happened in one incident in the days of Hillel, when an old man was crushed by the throngs, and they called that Passover "the Passover of the crushed."¹¹

But the incident of Eliezer was called a miracle for many people, for it says in the fourth chapter of tractate Rosh Hashana (page 32b), that on Rosh Hashana, one should recite a certain number of verses of kingship, remembrances, and shofarot. The Gemara states that "one does not recite [a verse dealing with] the remembrance of an individual, even [if it is] for good." Rabbi Yossi is of the opinion that revisitings [pikdonot] are [equivalent] to [verses] of remembrances [zichronot], and therefore they may be counted as the required number of verses of remembrances. As an example, he presents the verse, "And the L-rd revisited [pakad] Sarah."¹² Even though this is a revisiting of an individual, and we have learned that a remembrance for an individual should not typically be recited on Rosh Hashana, since many descendants came from her, as Sarah is the mother of the Jewish people, she is considered like many. Therefore, this verse is effectively dealing with the remembrance of the entire Jewish people, and is allowed to be used as one of the remembrances on Rosh Hashana.

It's fine that [Eliezer] relied upon the miracle, because this was like a miracle, as many people came from [Isaac].

וּבְזֶה יוּבַן קוּשִׁיַּית מִדְרָשׁ הַנַּ"ל, אָם לְזוּוּגְהּ הִמְצִיא לְהָ דֶּרָהְ נֵס כְּדְכָתִיב "הַקְרֵה־נָא" וְכוּ' מִשׁוּם דְּאָתוּ רַבִּים מִינָהְ אָף עַל גַּב שֶׁהָיָה עָתִיד לָצָאת מִמְהּ אַף עַשָּׁו שֶׁהָיָה רָשָׁע. לְמַאֲכָלָּה כְּלוֹמַר לְמַאֲכָל זֶה, שֶׁמַחַמָּתוֹ תָּבאֹנָה הַבְּרָכוֹת לִישְׁרָאֵל וְלֹא לְרְשָׁעִים, שֶׁהוּא צוֹרֵהְ גָּדוֹל לָרַבִּים, עַל אַחַת כַּמָּה וְכַמָּה. וְכָל זֶה הוּא לְפִי הָאֱמֶת. אָמְנָם לְפִי כָּוָונַת יִצְחַק שֶׁהָיָה לְבֶרָה אַת עַשָּׁו יִהְיָה בַּרְכוֹת לְזוּגְה וְכַמָּה וְכַמָּה וְכַמָּה וְכַמָּה וְכַמָּה. וְכָל זֶה הוּא לְפִי הָאֱמֶת. אָמְנָם לְפִי כּוּנות יִצְחַק שֶׁהָיָה לְבָרָה אַת עַשָּׁו יִהְיָה בַּרָבוּה לָמָאַכָלָה כַּמָּה וָהַיָּה בַּיִוּנוּגְדָ וְכוּי מִשׁוּם דְּאָתוּ רַבִּים מִינָה אַף עַל גַּב שֶׁעָתִיד לָצָאת מִמְהָ נָמִי רְשָׁעִים הַרְבָּה, לְמָאֲכָלָר

In this way, the question of the above Midrash will be understood. "If for your marriage match, [G-d] created it for you." I.e., by way of a miracle—as it is written, when Abraham sent his servant Eliezer to find a wife for Isaac, and Eliezer prayed, "Grant me good fortune today . . . Let the maiden to whom I say, 'Please, lower your jar that I may drink,' and who replies, 'Drink, and I will also water your camels'—let her be the one whom You have decreed for Your servant Isaac." That is because many people will descend from you, even though Esau too, a wicked man, will also come from you.

"For your food." This is as if to say, it should be the same for this particular food, for through [Esau's] anger at losing his birthright, the blessings came to Israel and not to the wicked, for this was a great need for many people.

"It should be the same." I.e., it wasn't just an individual who needed a marriage match, and who needed the food, but the future of many people depended upon both of these things. Thus, a miracle was enabled in each case.

All this is according to the truth. Indeed, according to Isaac's intent to bless Esau, his explanation would be thus, "If for your marriage match" etc., because many will descend from you, even though also many wicked people will descend from you.

"For your food" etc., as if to say, for this food, that your intention is for my merit and to bring about that the wicked will return in repentance, all the more so.

וְהָיִינוּ שֶׁכָּתְבוּ הַמְּפָרְשִׁים שֶׁיִצְחָק הָיָה מַכִּיר כּּל רְשְׁעָתוֹ שֶׁל עֵשָׂו וְעַיֵּין בָּאַלְשֵׁידָ. וְהַטַּעַם שֶׁהָיָה רוֹצָה לְבָרְכוֹ כָּתַב הַשֵׁ"דְ לְכִּי שֶׁהָיָה סוֹבָר שֶׁבְּשֵׁיִרְאֶה הוּא וְזָרְעוּ תִּגְבּוֹרֶת חַסְדֵי שָׁמַיִם עֲלֵיהֶם מַחֲמַת הַבְּרָכוֹת בְּלי טוֹרַח וּבְלי עָמַל יִתְנוּ אֵל לבָּם לְשוּב בִּתְשׁוּבָה שְׁלֵימָה וּמַעַתֵּה הַתְחִיל לְצוּתוֹ בַּמְצְנָה זוֹ שֵׁצָוָה עַלִיו לְהָכִין לוֹ הַמַּאֲכָל.

The commentators wrote that Isaac had recognized all the wickedness of Esau. See the Alshich¹³ on Gen. 26:35. As for the reason that [Isaac] had nevertheless wanted to bless [Esau], the Shach wrote on Gen. 27:1 that it was because he was of the opinion that when he and his descendants saw the increase of the grace of Heaven upon them because of the blessings, without trouble and without toil, they would let their hearts return in complete repentance. Thus, he now began to charge him with this commandment with which he commanded him, to prepare food for him.¹⁴

וְאָם תּאׁמַר אָם כֵּן אֵידְ אָמְרוּ ז"ל קַשִּׁים מְזוֹנוֹתָיו שֶׁל אָדָם כִּקְרִיעַת יָם סוּף, וְהָא לָא דָמוּ, דְהָתָם הֲוָה צוֹרֵך רַבִּים וְהָכָא הָוֵי צוֹרֶדְ יָחִיד. וְהַדִּין נוֹתֵן שֶׁיּהִיוּ הַמְזוֹנוֹת יוֹתֵר קַשִׁים מַקְרִיעַת יָם סוּף.

If you'll say: If so, how do [the rabbis] of blessed memory say, "[Obtaining] a person's food is as difficult as the splitting of the Red Sea," for they are not similar. For there, at the splitting of the Sea, there was the need of many people, while here, regarding obtaining food, there is only the need of an individual. The judgment is that obtaining a person's food is harder than the splitting of the Red Sea.

ַיָשׁ לוֹמַר דְּהָתָם בְּפֶרֶק י' דִּפְסָחִים נָפְקָא לַן מִדְּכְתִיב "לְגוַר יַם־סוּף לְגְזָרִים" וּסְמִידְ לֵיה: "נֹתֵן לֶחֶם לְכָל־בָּשָׁר" וְהָאי "לְגוַר יַם־סוּף לְגְזָרים", הָיִינוּ שֶׁנִקְרַע הָיָם לי"ב גְזָרִים לְכָל שֵׁבֶט וְשֵׁבֶט לְבַדּוֹ, וְלֹא הָיֹה הַנֵּס מוּצְרָדְ לָרַבִּים, שֶׁעִיקָר צוֹרֵדְ הָרִבִּים הָיָה לְגְוַרים", הָיִינוּ שֶׁנִקְרַע הַיָּם לי"ב גְזָרִים לְכָל שֵׁבֶט וְשֵׁבֶט לְבַדּוֹ, וְלֹא הָיֹה הַנֵּס מוּצְרָדְ לָרַבִּים, שֶׁעִיקָר צוֹרֵד הָרַבִּים הָיָה לַצְבוֹר הַיָּם בְּיַבָּשָׁה, כְּמוֹ שֶׁאָמַר הַכָּתוּב "וַיָּגְעַר בְּיַם־סוּף וַיָּחֶרָב ויוֹליכֵם בַּתְּהֹמוֹת" וְכוּי. וְזָה הָיָה נֵס אַחַר שֶׁבָשָׁה הקב"ה לְאַבוֹר הַיָּם בְּיָבָשָׁה, כְּמוֹ שָׁאָמַר הַבָּתוּב "וַיָּגְעָר בְּיַם־סוּף וַיָּחֶרָב ויוֹליבָם בַּתָּהמוֹת" וְכוּי. שָׁעָשָׁה הקב"ה לְהַגִּדִיל הַנֵּס שֶׁל קְרִיעַת יָם סוּף, וְאָם כֵן שַׁפִּיר מְצִי לְמֵילַף שֶׁיָּהְיוּ הַמְזוֹנוֹת שָׁהֵם צוֹרֵדְ וְהָכְרָם לָיָחִיד דּוּמְיָא

It can be said that there in the 10th chapter of tractate Pesachim, the difference is as it is written, "Who split apart the Red Sea,"¹⁵ juxtaposed to which is, "Who gives food to all flesh,"¹⁶ that the sea was divided into 12 pieces, one for each of the tribes respectively. I.e., G-d created 12 dry channels through the sea. This was not a miracle that was needed for many people, as the principal need that the many people had was for them to cross the sea on dry land, and this could have been accomplished by a single dry channel. As the verse states, "He sent His blast against the Red Sea; it became dry; He led them through the deep as through a wilderness."¹⁷ This creation of 12 separate channels, one for each tribe, was a different miracle that the Holy One, Blessed be He, fulfilled to enhance the miracle of splitting the Red Sea. If so, it is fine to teach ourselves that the food, which was for the need of an individual, is similar to the splitting of the Sea into 12 pieces, even though there wasn't such a great need for many people.

¹⁴ Rabbi Mordechai Ha'Cohen of Safed (1523–98), Siftei Cohen on Torah (Venice 1605).

¹⁵ Ps. 136:13.

¹⁶ Ps. 136:25.

¹⁷ Ps. 106:9.

ָוָאָתֵי שַׁפִּיר נָמֵי מָה שֶׁפֵּירְשׁוּ הַמְּפָרְשִׁים בְּזֶה שֶׁבַּקָרִיצַת יָם סוּף הָיְתָה מִדָּת הַדִּין מְקַטְרֶגֶת וְכוּ', וְכֵן לְכָל יָחִיד וְיָחִיד וְכוּ'.

It's also fine what the commentators explained on this (see Zohar, parashat Teruma, II:170a), that in the splitting of the Red Sea, the trait of judgment was prosecuting Israel and Egypt alike. I.e., G-d had to judge between Israel and Egypt, and at the time all were guilty of sins, each and every individual. Because of the merit of Abraham, G-d chose to save Israel and destroy the pursuing Egyptians.
