Essay 6. Moses and the setting up of the Tabernacle

גְּמָרֶא דְּנְדָרִים (דַּף ל"ח) אֵין הקב"ה מַשְׁרֶה שְׁכִינָתוֹ אֶלָּא עַל חָכָם גִּיבּוֹר וְעָשִׁיר, וְכֵלָּם מִמֹּשֶׁה, דְּכְתִיב גַּבֵּי הַמְּשְׁכָּן "וַיִּפְרֹשׁ אֶת־הָאֹהָל" וְכוּ'. וְאָמֵר מֵר מֹשֶׁה רַבֵּינוּ פָּ[]רְשׁוֹ וְדִילְמָא אָרוֹדְ וְקְטוֹן הָיָה, וּפֵרַשׁ רַשִּׁ"י אָרוֹדְ בַּקּוֹמָה וְקַטוֹן בַּכֹּח עכ"ל.

The Gemara in Nedarim (page 38a) says:

Rabbi Yochanan said: The Holy One, Blessed be He, rests His Divine Presence only upon [one who is] wise, mighty, wealthy, and humble. And all of these [qualities are derived] from Moses. [He was] mighty, as it is written concerning the Tabernacle: "And he spread the tent over the Tabernacle" (Ex. 40:19), and the Master said: Moses, our teacher, spread it [himself]. And it is written: "Ten cubits shall be the length of a board [and a cubit and a half the breadth of each board]" (Ex. 26:16). [I.e., Moses was tall and strong enough to spread the tent over the boards alone. The Gemara asks:] Suppose that he was tall and small?

- Nedarim 38a

Rashi explains the last point, that perhaps Moses was tall in height, but small in strength, for example, tall and thin, and it was his height that allowed him to spread the tent, and that strength was not required.

וּמַהַּרְשָׁ"א כָּתַב בַּשֵּׁם הָרֹאׁ"שׁ לָמָה לֹא מֵבִיא הַגְּמָרָא שֶׁהָיָה גִּיבּוֹר מִקְרָא הַקּוֹדֵם, דְּכְתִיב "נַיָּקֶם . . . אֶת־הַמִּשְׁכָּן", וְהַקְּרָשִׁים הָיוּ כְּבַדִים. וְתוּ לִיכָּא לְהַקְשׁוֹת כְּדִלְעֵיל? וְהָקְשָׁה עָלָיו מַאי פָּרֵיךּ, דִילְמָא בְּנֵס הָיָה, כְּדִּסְמִידְּ לֵיה "הוּקם הַמִּשְׁכָּן" דְּהוּקּם מֵאַלָיו מַשְׁמָע, כָּדְאִיתָא בְּתַנְחוּמָא וּבַפַּרֵשׁ רַשִּׁ"י עכ"ל.

In the Chiddushei Agadot on the Gemara, the Maharsha¹ writes in the name of the Rosh:² "Why didn't the Gemara bring the preceding verse as proof that [Moses] was strong, as it is written, "Moses set up the Tabernacle, placing its sockets, setting up its planks, inserting its bars, and erecting its posts" (Ex. 40:18), for the planks were heavy." Is there no one else to question as above? [The Maharsha] asks, what refutes this, i.e., that Moses was strong? Perhaps it was by a miracle that he was able to set up the Tabernacle, for support of which it is written, "In the first month of the second year, on the first of the month, the Tabernacle was set up" (Ex. 40:17), which has the meaning that it set itself up, as it brought in the midrash in the Tanchuma and in the explanation of Rashi.⁴

וּלְדִידן אֵין כָּאן קוּשְׁיָא עַל הָראׁ"שׁ, שֶׁאֲפִילּוּ יָדְעִינֵן בְּנַדַּאי שֶׁהָיָה גִּיבּוֹר, מֵאן לֵימָא לַן שְׁמִי שֶׁהוּא גִּיבּוֹר יָכוֹל לְהָרִים לְבַדּוֹ אֵלוּ הַקְרָשִׁים שֶׁהָיוּ כָּל כָּךְ כְּבָדִים? וְכִי סַלְקָא דַּעְהָּךְ שֶׁמִּי שֶׁהוּא גִּיבּוֹר יָכוֹל לְעֲשׁוֹת בְּכֹחוֹ כְּמוֹ מַלְאָד, וְאִין הָכִי נָמֵי שָׁאַף מִי שְׁהוּא גִּיבּוֹר יֵשׁ לוֹ קֵץ וּגְבוּל לְגָבוּרָתוֹ, וְאָם כֵּן אַף עַל כִּי שֶׁהָיָה מֹשֶׁה גִּיבּוֹר הָיָה צְרִידְּ סִיּוּעַ הַאֱלֹהִי לַהַקְמֵת אֵלוּ הַקְּרָשִׁים, שַׁלֹּא הַיָּה אֵפְשֶׁר אֵפִילּוּ כִּכֹחַ אָדָם גִּיבּוֹר לְהָקִימֵם.

For us, we have no difficulty on the question of the Rosh, asking why the Gemara didn't instead cite the verse the Moses set up the Tabernacle, including setting the planks. For even if we know that certainly [Moses] was mighty, who will say to us that one who is mighty is able to alone lift up these planks that were so heavy? It might enter your mind that one who is mighty is able to act with his power like an angel, but indeed, even one who is mighty has an end and a limit to his might. If so, even though Moses was mighty, he would have needed Divine assistance to raise these planks, for it was not possible even with the strength of a mighty man to raise them.

וְאַדְרַבָּא יֵשׁ מִכָּאוֹ רְאָיָה שֶׁהָיָה גִּיבּוֹר, שֶׁהָרֵי יָדַעְנוּ שֶׁלְעוֹלָם הַקְּדוֹשׁ בָּרוּךְ הוּא עוֹשֶׂה מַעֲשֶׂה נִסִים הַּיּוֹתֵר קְרוֹבִים אֶל הַשֶּׁבַע. וּאַדְרַבָּא יֵשׁ מִכָּאוֹ רְאָיָה שֶׁיָקִים בְּצַלְאֵל אֵת הַמִּשְׁכָּן, שֶׁהַמַתְחִיל בַּמִּצְוָה אוֹמְרִים לוֹ גָמוּר. וְלָמָה דְּוְקָא הָיָה מֹשֶׁה שֶׁהָיה לוֹמַר שֶׁאִם הָיָה בְּצַלְאֵל הַמֵּקִים הוֹאִיל שֶׁלֹא הָיָה גִּיבּוֹר, הָיָה צָרִיךְ וֵס גָּדוֹל, וְהָיָה חוּץ מִן הַשֶּבַע לְגַמְרֵי. אֲבָל מֹשֶׁה שֶׁהָיָה גִּיבּוֹר, בָּמִצֵט וֵס סָגִּי וְאֵינוֹ כַּל כַּךְ חוּץ מֶהַשֶּבַע.

To the contrary, from here there is a proof that he was mighty, for we know that the Holy One, Blessed be He, always produces miraculous acts that are closer to nature. It would have been more appropriate for Bezalel to raise the Tabernacle than for Moses to do so, for [regarding] the one who begins a mitzvah, they say about him that [he should] complete it, because otherwise, according to Rabbi Yochanan, it will be credited to someone else who actually completes the work. Why then was it specifically Moses that raised the Tabernacle, instead of Bezalel? Rather, it certainly needs to be said that if it had been Bezalel that raised it, since he was not mighty, it would have required a great miracle, and it would have been completely outside of nature. But Moses was mighty, so a minor miracle would have been enough to accomplish the task, and it would not have been so far outside of nature.

³ The Zera Shimshon has paraphrased the text of the Maharsha and Rosh.

⁴ Rashi on Ex. 39:33: "[Moses] appeared to be erecting it, but in fact it set itself up and rose of its own accord. That is why Scripture says, 'The Tabernacle was erected' (Ex. 40:17)—it was erected by itself. This is a Midrash of Rabbi Tanchuma." See also Yalkut Shimoni on Torah 417:1.

אֶלָּא שָׁאַף קוּשְׁיָית הָרֹאׁ"שׁ יֵשׁ לְתִרְצָה, שֶׁעַקָּר הָרְאָיָה בָּאָה מִ"וַיִּפְרֹשׁ אֶת־הָאֹהֶלּ", שֶׁאָם לֹא הָיָה לְנוּ אֶלָּא הַפָּסוּק "וַיָּקֶם . . . אֶת־הַמִּשְׁכָּן", הָיִיתִי יָכוֹל לוֹמֵר דְּאִין הָכִי נָמֵי שֶׁמֹשֶׁה לֹא הָיָה גִּיבּוֹר אֶלָּא שֶׁרְצָה הקב"ה שָׁגַּם הוּא יִתְעַסֵּק בִּמְלָאכֶת הַמִּשְׁכָּן, אֶתְדֹה מְשָׁה לֹא הָיָה גִּיבּוֹר אֶלָּא שֻׁרָצָה הקב"ה שָׁגַּם הוּא יִתְעַסֵּק בִּמְלְאכֶת הַמִּשְׁכָּן. אָמְנָם עַתָּה כְּמוֹ שֶׁהוֹרְיד לַנְּשִׂיאִים מִן הַשְּׁמִים אַבְנֵי הַשֹּׁהם וְאַבְנֵי הַמִּילוּאִים כְּדֵי שֶׁיָבִיאוּ אַף הֵם אֵיזֶה דָּבָר לְנִדְּבַת הַמִּשְׁכָּן. אָלָּא וַדָּאִי מִפְּנֵי שָׁכְּכִר כְּתִיב "וַיִּפְרֹשׁ אֶת־הָאֹהֶל" וְכוּ', אָם כֵּן כְּבָר עֲשָׂה מֹשֶׁה חֶלְקוֹ, וְלָמָה לֹא הֵקִים בְּצַלְאֵל אֵת הַמִּשְׁכָּן, אָלָּא וַדָּאִי מִפְּנֵי שָׁמֹשֶׁה הָיָה גִּיבּוֹר.

But even the difficulty of the Rosh has to be excused, that the main proof comes from the verse, "And he spread the tent over the Tabernacle." For if we had nothing but the verse, "Moses set up the Tabernacle," as the Rosh seems to have suggested, I still could have said that indeed Moses was not mighty, but that the Holy One, Blessed be He, wanted that even he would be engaged in the work of the Tabernacle.

In that way, the onyx and other stones were brought down to the chieftains of the tribes from Heaven, in order that even they would bring something as a contribution to the Tabernacle.^{6,7} Indeed, it is already written, "And he spread the tent over the Tabernacle," and if so, then Moses already did his part.

So why didn't Bezalel set up the Tabernacle, and why did it instead fall to Moses? Rather it's certainly because Moses was mighty, and was able to set it up by himself with only a small miracle, and thus in a manner closer to the natural order, whereas for Bezalel to set up the Tabernacle by himself would have required a great miracle completely outside of nature.

אָר בָּמֶר בְּדֶרֶךְ אַחֶרֶת, דְּדִילְמָא מֹשֶׁה לֹא הָיָה גִּיבּוֹר, וְהָא דְּנַעֲשָׂה הַנֵּס עַל יַד מֹשֶׁה לְפִי שֶׁהָיָה יוֹתֵר גָּדוֹל קוֹמָה מֵאֲחֵרִים. וּבְזֶה הָיָה הַנֵּס יוֹתֵר קֵרוֹב אֵל הַטֶּבַע, וְאִי הָנָה נָמֵי נָקט קְרָא שֶׁל "נַיָּקֶם מֹשֶׁה אֶת־הַמִּשְׁכָּן" הָנָה שַׁיִּיךְ לְהַקְשׁוֹת וְדִילְמָא אֲרִיךְ וְקַטִין הָיָה.

Alternatively, another way to understand the Gemara, is that perhaps Moses wasn't mighty, but a miracle was created for Moses because he was greater in height than others. I.e., maybe he was tall but thin, and thus not very strong, and it was only thanks to a miracle that he was able to accomplish these matters by himself. In this way, the miracle was closer to nature, than if it had been Bezalel, who was of normal height. Even if the Gemara had also brought the Scripture of "Moses set up the Tabernacle," it would have been appropriate to ask, "Perhaps he was long and thin," i.e., tall and slender.
