Chapter XXXIX: Chukat (Num. 19:1–22:1)

Essay 4. Impurity where there is no impurity

There is a verse: "This is the law: When a person dies in a tent, whoever enters the tent and whoever is in the tent shall be impure seven days."¹ People ask why it was necessary to write the preface, "This is the law," for the following words, "When a person dies in a tent," by itself was sufficient.

For us, it will be nicely understood by what is said in tractate Ketubot, chapter 12, "When Rabbi Yehuda haNasi died, sanctity was nullified."² This almost sounds as though he was on such a high level of holiness, that when he died, it did not exist anymore. However, the Tosafists wrote there in the name of Rabbeinu Chaim Cohen³ that "sanctity nullified" means the sanctity of the priests not to become impure by exposure to the dead was nullified, that a priest was completely allowed to defile himself by exposure to the dead. This was normally only allowed if a priest loses one of seven close relatives.

But this doesn't appear [correct] to Rabbi -,4 that perhaps it's specifically referring to setting aside the sanctity of the priests for the impurity of the beit ha'peras, an area where there is uncertainty with regard to the location of a grave or a corpse, which is forbidden by rabbinic law, but it does not [set aside] impurity according to Biblical law.

וְלֹכְאוֹרָה דְּבְרֵי הָרַב חַיִּים כּהֵן נִימּוּקם עִמָּם לְפִי מֵה שֶׁכָּתַב הַשֵּׁ"ךְ עַל פָּסוּק "הַנֹּגַע בְּמֵת לְכָל־נֶפֶשׁ אָדָם", דְּעָקֵר הַטוּמְאָה שֶׁל הַמֵּת אֵינָה בָּאָה אֶלָא מֵחֲמַת שֶׁמֵּתִים עַל יְדֵי מַלְאָדְ הַמָּנֶת וְכוּ'. אָמְנָם הַצַּדִיקִים שֶׁנּשְׁמָתָם יוֹצַאת בּנְשׁיקָה עַל פִּי ה' וְ"כַּאֲשֶׁר יַחַנוּ כֵן יִסָּעוּ" אֵין בָּהֶם שׁוּם טוּמְאָה כְּלָל, וּמִשׁוּם הָכִי אָתֵי שׁפִּיר בָּטְלָה קָדוּשֵׁת כְּהוּנָה לְגַמְרֵי.

Apparently, the words of Rabbeinu Chaim Cohen have depth, according to what the Shach⁵ wrote on the verse, "Those who touch the corpse of any human being shall be impure for seven days."⁶ He wrote that apparently the principal of the impurity of one who contacts the dead only comes because they have died at the hands of the Angel of Death. However, regarding the righteous, whose souls exit by the kiss of G-d, and "as they dwelled, so they shall depart,"⁷ i.e., just as they were pure and holy in life, they are pure and holy in death, there is no impurity at all in them. Because of this, it's fine that there is a complete nullification of the sanctity of the priest not to become impure by exposure to the dead.

אָבָל כַּד מְעַיְינִינַן בֵּיה שׁפִּיר אִי אֶפְשָׁר לוֹמר כַן, שֶׁהַרֵי מִי לָנוּ גָדוֹל מִיּוֹסָף הַצַדִּיק שָׁלֹא נִתְעַסֵּק בּוֹ אֶלָּא משֶׁה, וּמִמּשָׁה שֶׁלֶקח עַצָּמוֹת יוֹסַף גָּמְרינַן שָׁהַטְּמֵא מֵת וְהַמֵּת עַצְמוֹ מוּתָּרִים בְּמַחָנֶה לְויֶה כִּדְאָמְרִינַן בְּכֶרָק ג' דְּסוֹטָה (דַּף כ') וְעִיי"ש. וְאִי אָמרְתָ שֶׁהַצִּדִיקִים אֵינָם מְטַמְאִים הֵיכִי גָּמְרינַן מִיּוֹסַף לשְׁאָר מַתִים וְהַלֹא יוֹסַף הָיָה צִדִיק וְלֹא הָיָה מְטַמֵּא, וְעַל כָּרְחָדָּ לוֹמֵר שֶׁגַם הַצִּדִיקִים אֵינָם מְטַמְאִים הֵיכִי גָּמְרינַן מִיּוֹסַף לשְׁאָר מַתִים וְהַלֹא יוֹסַף הָיָה צִדִיק וְלֹא הָיָה מְטַמֵּא, וְעַל כָּרְחָדָּ לוֹמֵר שֶׁגַם הַצִּדִיקִים מְטַמְאִים, וְעוֹד שֶׁאַף מִדְבְרֵי הָבם חַיִּים כָּהַן עַצְמוֹ מוּכָח הָכִי, דְּקָאָמַר שָׁהכּהוָן הָיָה מוּתָּר לוֹ לְהָטָמֵא עכ"ל, דִשְׁמַע מִינָה שָׁיַישׁ הַטוּמְאָה. וְעוֹד דְהַשַׁים כּלא קוַי לוֹמַר בָּטְלָה קָדוּשָׁה אָלָא אַדְרַבָּא בָּטָלָה הַטוּמָא.

But when investigating this closely, it's impossible to say this, for who among us is greater than Joseph, the righteous one, so holy that only Moses involved himself with him. From Moses, who took the bones of Joseph, we derive that someone impure from contact with the dead, and the dead body itself, were permitted in the camp of the Levites, where the priests also dwelt, as it is said in a Baraita quoted in the third chapter of tractate Sota (page 20b).

But isn't it taught [in a Baraita]: One who is ritually impure from [contact with] a corpse is permitted to enter the Levite camp. And they said this not only for one who is ritually impure from a corpse; rather, even a corpse itself [may be brought into the Levite camp], as it is stated: "And Moses took the bones of Joseph with him" (Ex. 13:19). "With him" [means] "in his vicinity" [even though Moses was in the Levite camp].

- Sotah 20b

If you'll say that the righteous don't carry impurity, how will you derive this from Joseph's case to the other dead, for is it so that Joseph was righteous and didn't carry impurity? No, the Baraita quoted in Sota didn't say that, but rather that even though there was ritual impurity from a corpse, Joseph's bones were allowed inside the Levite camp.

You necessarily need to say that the righteous too carry impurity. This is also proven even from the words of Rabbeinu Chaim Cohen himself in the Tosafot, for since he says that it was permissible for the priest to defile himself, we hear from this that there was impurity.

Also, if the Shach's view was correct, then the Talmud⁸ in Ketubot wouldn't have said that the sanctity of the priests in the Levite camp was nullified, but rather that the impurity was nullified. But that's not what it said. Instead, it explicitly said that, "when Rabbi Yehuda haNasi died, sanctity ceased."

וּכְדֵי שֶׁלֹּא יִקְשָׁה זֶה לְפֵירוּשׁ הַשֵּׁ"דְּ הַנַּ"ל דְּהָא טַעְּמָא רָבָה קָאָמַר, וְעוֹד שָׁאַף מְפָרְשִׁים אֲחֵרִים כָּתְבוּ שֶׁהַצַדִּיקִים שָׁאֵינָם מַתִּים עַל יְדֵי מַלְאָדְ הַמָּוֶת אֵינָם מְטַמְאִים, צָרִידְ לוֹמַר שָׁאַף עַל פּּי שֶׁלְפִי הָאֱמֶת אֵינָם מְטַמְאִים שֶׁהַרֵי יָצָאתָה נִשְׁמָתָם בּנְשִׁיקָה, עָם כָּל זֶה לֹא רָצָה הַכָּתוּב לְחַלֵּק בֵּיוֵיהֶם בִּשְׁבִיל שֶׁלֹּא לְחַלֵּק בֵין צַדִּיק לְצִדִיק, כִּדְאָמְרִינַן הָתָם בְּכְתוּבּוֹת כָּרֶק הַנִּשִׁיקָה, עָם כָּל זֶה לֹא רָצָה הַכָּתוּב לְחַלֵּק בֵּיוֵיהֶם בִּשְׁבִיל שֶׁלֹא לְחַלֵּק בֵּין צַדִּיק לְצִדִיק, כִּדְאָמְרִינַן הָתָם בְּכְתוּבּוֹת כָּרֶק הַנַּילֹא דְרַבֵּי כָּל בֵּי שִׁמְשִׁי אָתֵי לְבִיתֵיה וְכוּי וְתוּ לָא אֵתָא, כְּדֵי שֶׁלֹא לְחַצָּק עָווּים ה

So we now have a question on the view of the Shach, and we need to investigate further, in order that there shouldn't be any question on the above explanation of the Shach, who stated such a strong reason. Also, it was not only the Shach, but even other commentators wrote that the righteous, who don't die at the hands of the Angel of Death, do not carry impurity. It needs to be said that even according to the truth, they don't carry impurity, for their souls exit by a kiss from G-d, despite all this, Scripture didn't want to draw a distinction between them, in order not to distinguish between one righteous person and another righteous person. We don't want to be placed in a position of deciding whether a recently deceased person was so righteous that a priest has permission to defile himself through contact with the deceased. As it is said there in tractate Ketubot, chapter 12 as cited above, that:

Every Sabbath eve [even after his passing], Rabbi [Yehuda haNasi] would come to his house [as he had done during his lifetime]. A certain Sabbath eve, a neighbor came and called at the door. His maidservant said [to her]: Be quiet, for Rabbi [Yehuda haNasi] is sitting [here]. When he heard [his maidservant reveal his presence to the neighbor], he did not come again, so as not to cast aspersions on earlier righteous [individuals who did not appear to their families following their death].

- Ketubot 103a

⁸ Literally, "the Shas," an acronym for Shisha Sedarim [שָׁשָה סְדָרִים], the "six orders" of the Mishna and Talmud.

וּמֵעַתָּה נָבאׁ לְכָאָר הַפָּתוּב, "זֹאָת הַתּוֹרָה אָדָם" וְכוּ' עַל דָּרָהְ שֶׁדָּרְשׁוּ רז"ל "זֹאָת תּוֹרַת הָעֹלָה" תּוֹרָה אָחַת לְכָל הָעוֹלִים אַפִּילּוּ פְּסוּלִים שָׁאִם עָלוּ לֹא יָרָדוּ, וּכְמוֹ שֶׁפִּירֵשׁ רַשִׁ"י זַ"ל שָׁם שֶׁכָּתַב זֹאָת תּוֹרַת הָעוֹלָה לְפִי שֶׁהַסְבָרָא הָיָתָה נוֹתֶנֶת שֶׁהַפְּסוּלִים יֵרְדוּ. וְאָף כָּאן כָּתַב "זֹאָת הַתּוֹרָה אָדָם כִּי־יָמוּת" וְכוּ "יִסְמָא שָׁבְעַת יָמִים", כְּלוֹמַר תּוֹרָה אַחַת לְכָל הַמַתִים שָׁהַפְּסוּלִים יֵרְדוּ. וְאַף כָּאן כָּתַב "זֹאָת הַתּוֹרָה אָדָם כִּי־יָמוּת" וְכוּ "יִסְמָא שְׁבְעַת יָמִים שִׁיּסַמָּאוּ אַף עַל פִּי שֶׁיֵשׁ בָּהָם צַדִּיקִים שֶׁהַסְבָרָא נוֹתֶנֶת שָׁלֹא יְטַמְאוּ וְכוּ הוּא לְפִי הָאֶמֶת הוֹאִיל שֶׁיָצְתָה נִשְׁמָתָם בַּנְשִׁיקָה אַין טוּמאָה בַּהָם כְּנִ"ל, אַפָּלוּ הַכִי הַנוֹגַע בָּהַם יַטַמֵּא.

Now we will come to explain the original question on the Scripture, "This is the law: When a person dies in a tent," in the way that the rabbis, of blessed memory, explained a different verse, Lev. 6:2. Quoting that verse, "This is the law of the burnt offering [ha'ola] [literally, 'that which ascends']," they said: "[The verse] included [under] one law all [items] that ascend [upon the altar], even invalidated offerings, [teaching] that if they ascended the altar, they shall not descend."⁹

Also, as Rashi, of blessed memory, explained there, writing, " 'This is the law of the burnt offering," because the logical reasoning was given that invalidated offerings should descend."

So too here, in our verse, it is written, "This is the law: When a person dies in a tent, whoever enters the tent and whoever is in the tent shall be impure seven days," as if to say there is one law for all of the dead. That is, they carry impurity, even if there are among them righteous. The reasoning given by the Shach, that they don't carry impurity, and according to the truth, since their souls leave by a kiss of G-d, there is no impurity in them, as above, even so, one who touches them will be impure. We learn this from the introductory words, "This is the law," that there is one uniform law for all similar cases. We also understand the reasoning, as explained above, that we don't want to judge whether a deceased person was "righteous enough" to allow a priest to defile himself.
